INDEX TO THE 1820 UNITED STATES CENSUS OF GEORGIA

Foreword.

Even though Georgia was not the scene of major fighting in the War of 1812, the state suffered a grievous loss when the British burned Washington in 1814. Among the papers that were lost in the destruction of public buildings were the first three Federal censuses of Georgia—1790, 1800, and 1810. The 1820 Census, therefore, is the earliest extant for the state. Except for some tax records in the counties, which are incomplete, this is the earliest list of Georgia citizens.

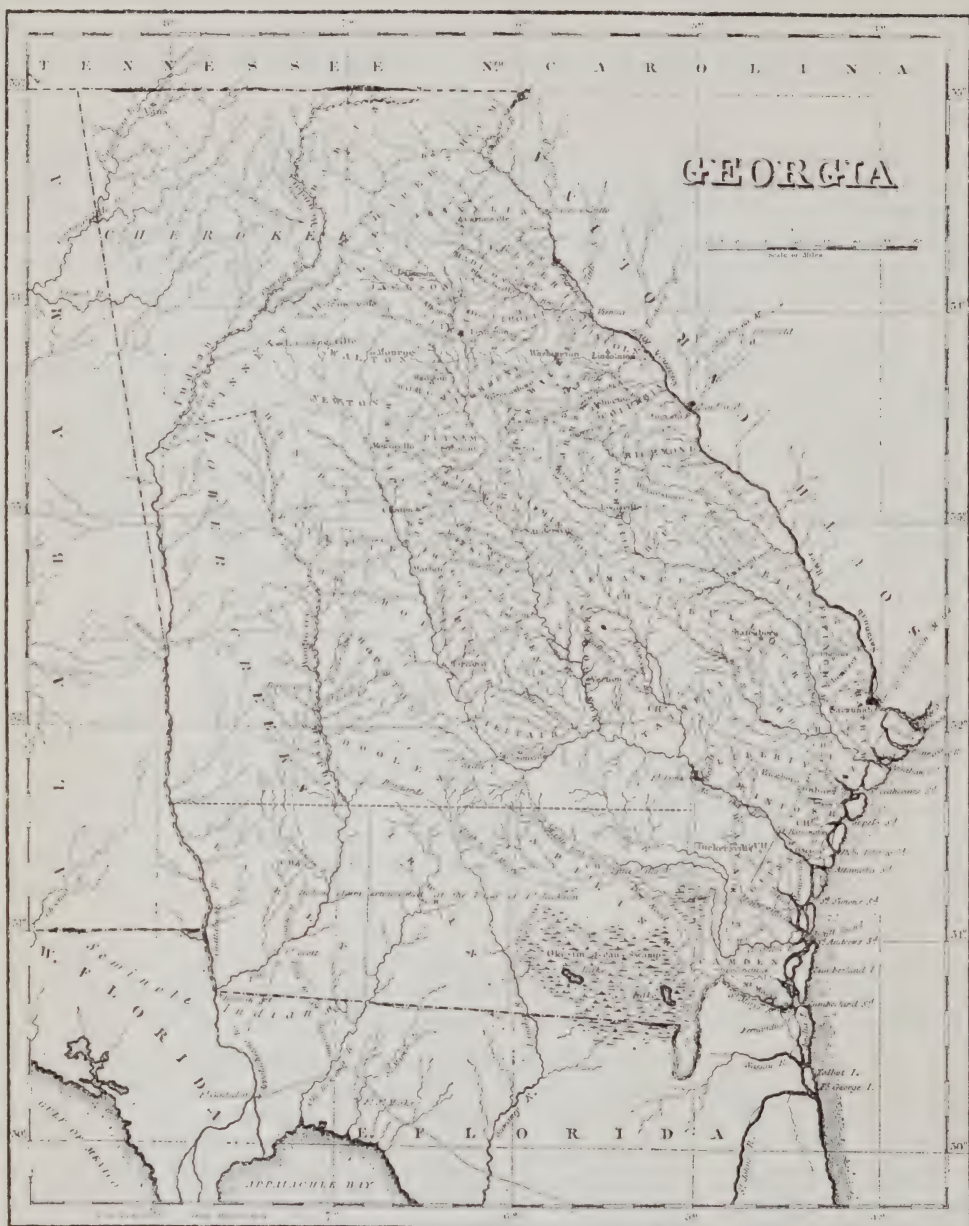

Georgia is the only one of the original 13 states that has not yet had a census printed. This publication, therefore, will fill a long-felt need and the Georgia Historical Society takes pride in presenting it. It is not a complete copy of the census but an index to it, giving names of heads of families, followed by county of residence. If one wants to know the number of persons in a family and the age groups, they can be found by referring to the original schedule for that county. A brief outline of the formation of the 1820 counties and a map are included in this publication. For detailed information on all the counties, see Georgia's Official Register, 1959-1960 (Atlanta, 1961) (or earlier editions) compiled by Mary Givens Bryan, Director, Department of Archives and History.

This index was made from microfilm copies of the original records in Washington, with the exception of Morgan County, which was copied from the original. It is arranged alphabetically by surnames, with given names also in alphabetical order. Titles such as Capt., Dr., Mrs., etc., have been disregarded in alphabetizing. Abbreviations of given names have been spelled out when there is no doubt, as William for Wm. In cases of doubt, the abbreviations remain. Jos. and Jas. were often indistinguishable. Mc is alphabetized as though spelled Mac. Phonetic spelling was often used so the reader must check all possible spellings of surnames. If there was more than one person of identical name in the same county, that name is followed by a numeral; e. g., Bailey, John (2) indicates two of the same name in the same county.

Some county schedules are so faded, poorly written, or torn that they are particularly hard to decipher. These are Chatham, Laurens, Pulaski, Hancock, Richmond, and Wilkes. Some names had to be omitted because of illegibility.

The work of indexing the 1820 Census for publication was done by a committee headed by Mrs. Eugene Anderson Stanley; sub-chairmen were Mrs. Olaf Otto and Mrs. Thomas Clark Johnson. Other members of the committee were Mrs. Earle F. Bidez, Miss Miriam Brown, the late Mrs. Margaret Davis Cate, Mrs. John L. DeGroen, Mrs. Fred C. Hack, Mrs. H. V. Hayden, Mrs. Bernard A. Lazard, Mrs. Raymond V. Malecki, Mrs. Antoinette J. Matthews of Atlanta, Mrs. Ralph B. Miller, Mrs. Robert P. Miller, Mrs. Walter A. Norton, and Mrs. J. B. Smith. The committee is greatly indebted to Mary Givens Bryan for her cooperation and advice, and to John E. Ladson, Jr. for making the publication possible.

MISSING CENSUS PAGE

Give a gold star to Douglas R. Davis, 316 Alexander St., Apt. 6, Marietta, Ga. 30060, who discovered that the National Archives had omitted a census page in microfilming! Here is his story.

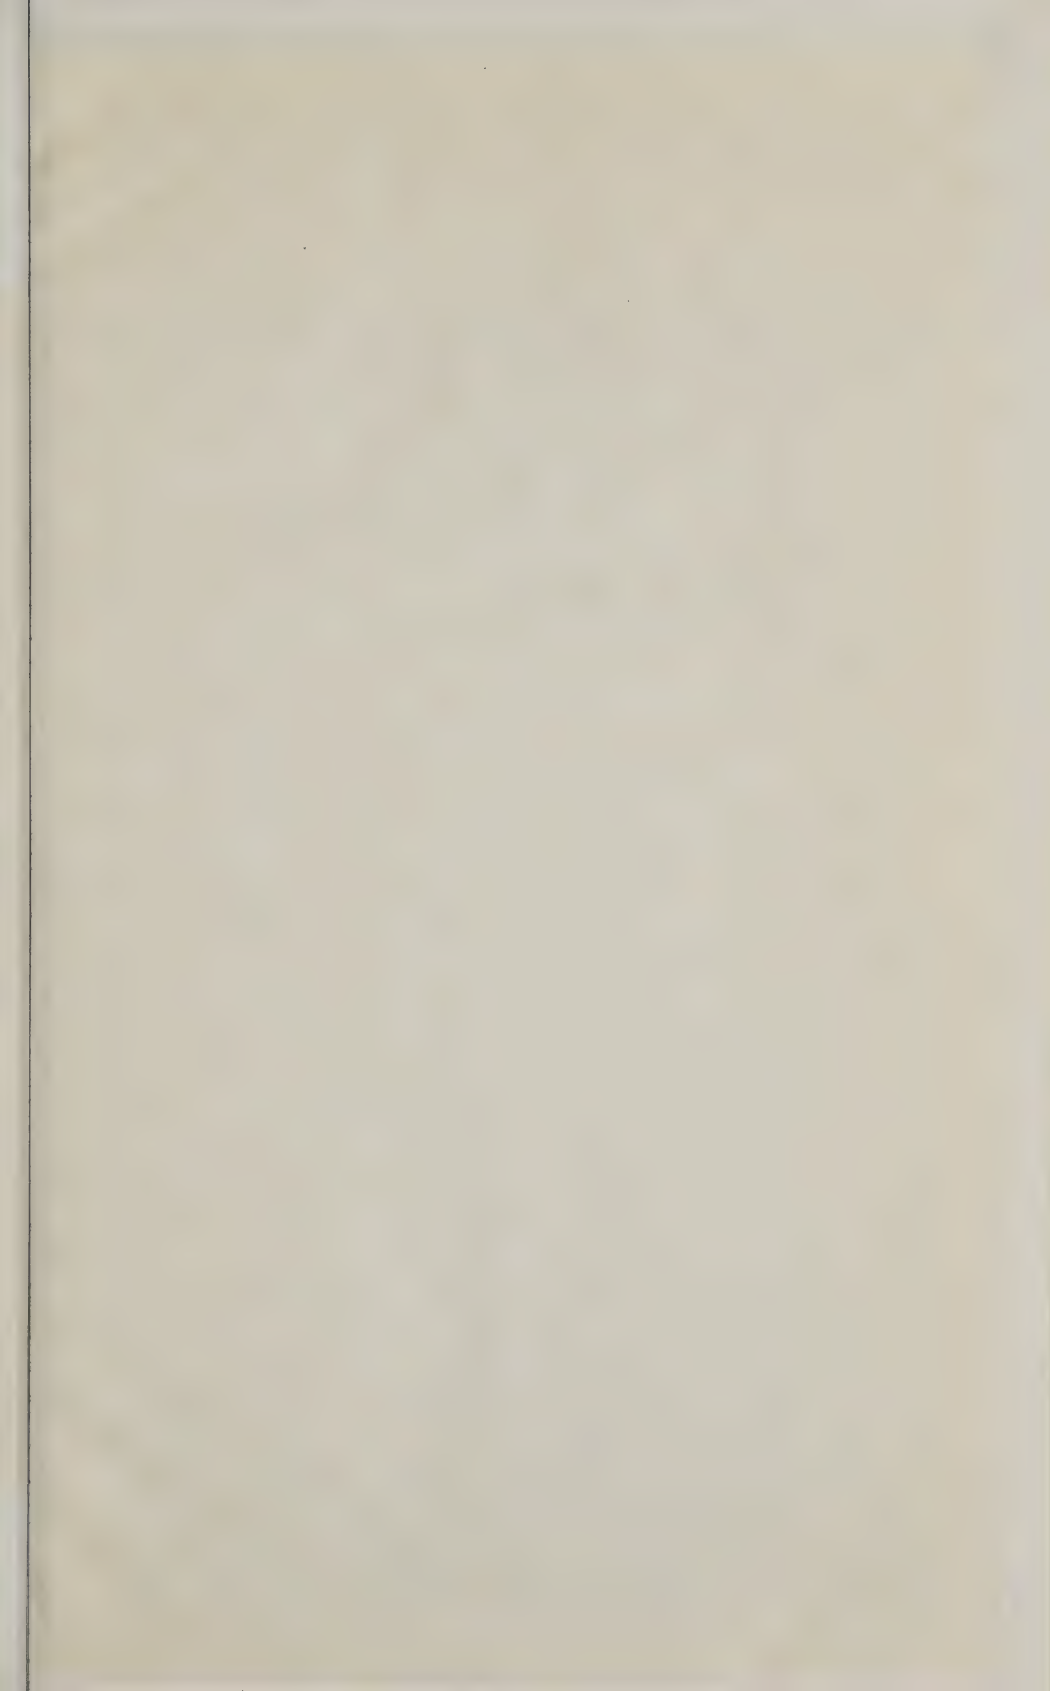

I continued to research my CLORE-GLORE line (F.P. 196, p. 3) and found that GEORGE W. GLORE moved from Wilkes to Madison Co. some time between 1808-1816. George and his oldest son ABNER GLORE, both appear in the 1820 Land Lottery as residents of Madison County. I searched the 1820 Madison County census on microfilm and the index to the 1820 census of Georgia and could not find a Clore/Glore in either. While looking through the census I did notice that a page listing heads of households was missing.

I wrote the National Archives and it develops that page 284 was omitted during the microfilming. The page lists 35 Madison County families, and I am happy to say that George Clore is one of them. The opposite page listing the occupations and slaves was microfilmed.

You possibly are already aware of this, but in case you are not, I am enclosing a xerox copy of the photostat of the page which the Archives sent me. Perhaps those researching the 34 other families will find this information about the omission helpful.

This certainly is helpful, Doug, and thank you for sharing it with us. I'm going to add each of these names to my copy of INDEX TO 1820 CENSUS FOR GEORGIA;

Now let me add a post script. We know where the legal residence, and family cemetery of Edward Ware was located. Therefore one would assume that persons in this list were all residents of the vicinity around the area the Ware's home was. We can also exclude a nearby land owner - General Allen Daniel for his name is not on the list. Consequently I would expect to find these persons living in the region north of Danielsville shown on this little map. X marks the site of Edward Ware's homeplace; D the location of the Gen. Allen

end of page 284 Madison County 1820 Census

Daniel home and cemetery. If one examines the pages immediately before and after page 284 on the census perhaps you could tell if the census taker was going toward or away from Danielsville by the order in which he enumerated the Daniels household, and the Wares.

Mr. Jack Morgan this shows why you, too, couldn't find your Morgan in Madison County's census though you knew him to be here - for here is David Morgan on this missing page! And Mrs. Godfrey's Barnes, and Jack Stell's Carruth, and several persons Edward Ware. This should certainly be a lesson to us to check page numbers in census records for continuity just as we check page numbers in old legal record books to see what is missing.
